AMONG WOLVES.

One of the most muscular, powerful, full-limbed settlers on the New York frontier, a century since, was Heinrick Kaupmann His arms were like piston-rods, and he could drive his huge mallet fist with such tremendous momentus as to fell an ox as if stricken by a thunderbolt

It was said that he was once caught by two iron-muscled Mohawks, each armed with knives, while Heinrich had neither; yet at the first onset he fractured the skull of the foremost Indian, and bore the second to the earth as if he were nothing but an infant That Indian never resumed his perpendicular again.

All this is by way of introduction to an adventure that Kaupmann once had with a pack of wolves, and which came fearfully nigh having a fatal result for him.

The winter of 17— was an unusually severe one throughout the Northren States; and many deaths from exposure and starvation occurred before the opening of spring. The wolves, bears and wild animals became nearly famished from hunger, and as a consequence, were unusually fierce and courageous. They came down from the mountains, and woe to the sheep-fold that was left unprotected during the night. They were sure to be invaded by the starving animals, and not a sheep would live to tell the tale.

There were tracks around the barns where the wolves had trotted all night in their search for some means of entrance; their howls could be heard torough the still, cold hours, and more than one housewife had been chased to her very door by imprudently venturing forth at nightfall.

Many of the settlers sat in the upper story of their houses, and amused themselves by shooting the wolves, for whose scalps the government had a standing bounty of several shillings.

Heinrich Kaupmann remained at home, only venturing forth to attend to his dumb animals, and to see that they were properly protected during the night. But after a while, his stock of groceries became low, and finally gave out altogether. True, he and his family could live on the poultry, sheep, and animals they owned; but it was rather unpleasant to be without tea, coffee, sugar, salt, and many other articles that were more necessities than they were luxuries.

By this time, too, the roads have been traversed so much, that they were thoroughly broken, and Heinrich concluded to harness up his mare to his sled and go to the village, about four miles distant, and procure the articles he so much needed

With a want of foresight which he never could explain, he started upon his journey without any weapon except a keen-edged hatchet, which he carried in case the sled should give out. In the house hung his trusty rifle, but neither he nor his good wife seemed to imagine that there would be any call for it, and he drove cheerily away, bidding his wife a merry good by, as his mare went at a spanking gait down the road towards the village.

The latter place—which might more properly be termed a settlement—was reached in due time, the groceries all bought, and everything was in readiness to start homeward.

Heinrich had been storm-bound so long in his house that he found the companionship of his friends at the village tavern very agreeable. There was so much to talk about, so much news to listen to, such a quantity of gossip regarding the affairs of the neighborhood, that the time slipped unconsciously by, until, when he arose to go, he found it almost dark.

Still he had no fears, as his wife would understand that he had remained at the village, and there was no necessity of his immediate return.

As he turned homeward and left the village behind him, and noticed that the dim light by which he was traveling belonged to the moon, it flashed upon him that perhaps he would encounter danger before reaching home, and he regretted for the twentieth time, that he had left his rifle behind The road, deep between the drifts of snow, was just of sufficient width for the little mare and sled, and the spirited animal went forward at a swift gait, while Heinrich, somewhat stupified and weary, was beguiled into drowsiness by the easy gliding motion of the sled.

He was half asleep and half conscious, when he became sensible of the rapid increase of the motion of the sled He felt it jerk several times beneath him, and all at once a fiercer jerk than usual, accompanied by a neigh of terror, effectually aroused him, and he sat upright and looked around. He looked in front; all wore its wonted appearance; a wild, straggling piece of wood, standing two feet deep in snow, the narrow track twisting through it; the heavens cold and clear, the earth white; but close behind the sled were three gaunt animals, cantering heavily, while a fourth was fast gaining behind.

The jaws of the leading wolf, owing to the lowness of the sled, were within reach of Heinrich's shoulders. But the latter cared little for this. The brutes were after the mare, and upon her courage and fortitude depended the escape of herself and master.

If the alarmed creature could have the nerve to keep steadily onward in the track, she had a good chance of eluding her pursuers; for the moment the wolves sprang outside to pass the sleigh, but the depth of the snow so diminished their speed that they fell behind

But should the mare, in her terror, spring aside and plunge in the snow, Kaupmann knew it was all up with both of them Such a proceeding would disentangle her from the sled, and before she could flounder a dozen yards through the snow, the wolves would be tearing her to shreds.

Heinrich leaned forward and spoke kindly to his animal, who raised her ears, which were flat with terror, and fell into a more even pace. He then turned and brandished his keen-edged hatchet, shouted to the brutes, but did not discomfit them in the least.

Reaching forward, he patted his mare with the hand that held the reins, while he held the hatchet in the other, and kept his eye upon the ferocious brutes. However, he did not use the weapon, for the closer the wolves kept to the sled, the less they were seen by the horse, and, as a consequence, there was the less probability of her terror becoming uncontrollable, and her breaking aside from the path.

So long as matters retained their relative position, Heinrich felt that all was going well.

It was not long before the wolves discovered that there was little prospect of success so long as they remained in the track, and they now began springing aside and attempting to get abreast of the horse. In every instance they fell behind; each effort revealed them to the terrified mare, that had no blinders, and the furious plunges she made filled Heinrich with the greatest anxiety.

One of the wolves was very large, straight-limbed, and showed a speed superior to the rest. More than once, when he sprang out into the snow, he advanced nearer abreast of the horse than the others. Upon this gaunt creature Heinrich fixed his eye, and caught the green light that played from his eyelids.

By-and-by the snow became flatter, and the huge wolf swang aside. The speed of these animals is extraordinary, and he gained rapidly. Heinrich had waited until he got just abreast, when, rising in his seat, he circled the hatchet over his head, and brought it down with the quickness of lightning The head was cleft in twain, and with a dying yelp he doubled over in the snow, and was quickly left behind

One of the dreaded animals was dispatched; there were three left, as furious for blood as he; and these never abated their speed in the least Had they got a taste of their companion, they would have gorged themselves on him before seeking the horse, but he was whisked off the stage of life so suddenly that they scarsely noticed his absence.

The distance from home was rapidly diminishing beneath the quick steps of his mare, which continued to carry the sled at full speed, until fear of overturning became again a source of anxiety. Heinrich, too, had learned by this time, that these were no ordinary animals with which he had to deal, but sharp set, courageous and determined brutes, to which man or beast would be alike welcome, their preference, however, as was manifested by their actions, being for horse-flesh.

They were not the animals to be frightened away by the sight of a man's horse, and there was a bad open space between the outskirts of the forest and Heinrich's home, to which he looked with no little apprehension.

They had now approached the very edge of the wood, and the wolves began gaining on each side. The terror-stricken horse became uncontrollable, and bounding terrifically forward, caught the sled against the stump of a tree, overturned it, and galloped away at a full run, leaving Heinrich alone in the snow.

Before he could rise, he felt the brutes clawing at his throat, but his garments were so thick that he was saved from injury; and rising to his feet, he threw them off. His hatchet had been jerked from his hand as he fell, and he looked desperately around for it, but it was not to be found.

But this time the mare was almost out of sight, and two of the wolves were upon the defenceless man, and the other, deserting the animal, bounded back. Heinrich faced the foremost, and the next moment was surrounded

The powerful man now called into play all the strength for which he was so renowned. He struck furiously at the leaping, snarling brutes, and flung them off when they attempted to cling to him. Had he a weapon, even a club, it is not impossible that he would have saved himself One blow, with a club in his hands, would have cracked the skull of the largest brute, and with a knife he could have ripped them open.

But there was no hope, fighting with his naked hand. His blood had already dyed the snow, and the smell and taste of it made the brutes furious. Their lithe, heavy bodies were hurled against him, as if impelled by some power not their own, and finally pulled him down.

The sweets of the earth, the mysteries of heaven, swept through poor Heinrich's mind in those brief, terrible moments; the particulars found time to intrude. It is often, very often thus in the moment of death.

He thought how his devoted Mary would watch through the vigil—how his mangled remains would tell his fate in the morning—a life's despair for the mother of the little ones. All these things rushed through his brain, and he knew that he himself was in the jaws of the wolves.

Then those foul, lurid eyes glared over him; the tightening on the throat followed, and thinking was finished. Still he struggled to release his arms—the grasp on his throat was choking him; his senses reeled, when, like the whizzing of a meteor, another hard-breathing animal shot in among the assailants, and fastened itself on the chief.

The wolves for an instant relaxed their fury; Heinrich reeled giddy to his feet, and recognized his brave dog. For a moment he stood bewildered, when he saw one wolf retreating, and the other two attacking his dauntless dog. He turned to help him, and a bright object caught his eye; it was his hatchet lying in the snow, within an arm's length of the last terrible struggle. Heinrich snatched it, and he was himself again.

His arms were bleeding, but his giant strength remained. The next instant he had split the skull of one of the wolves, and he now turned like a madman that he was upon the fierce animal that had borne his faithful dog to the ground.

The first blow laid bare the gaunt back-bone, the next his throat, a terrible gash, and the third loosened his fearful gripe upon the dog. Still he struggled fiercely, when Heinrich sprang upon the animal, and cut and hacked and slashed until the wolf was mincemeat.

As he arose, a hand was on his shoulder, and turning, a head was on his bosom.

"Heinrich!"

"Mary!"

Long did the young people stand in speechless embrace, but the weaker supported the stronger, for Heinrich's nerves were gone, and he leaned upon Mary like a helpless child

The arrival of the affrighted horse had roused the wife, and the moment she opened the door the dog rushed forth, led by his kindly instinct. Mary flew wildly after him, not pausing to bring the rifle. But this, as has been shown, was not needed.

A FLOATING CITY.

One of the most wonderful cities in the world is Bankok, the capital of Siam. Did you ever witness such a sight in your life? On either side of the wide, majestic stream, moored in regular streets and alleys, extending as far as the eye can reach, are upwards of 70,000 neat little houses, each house floating on a compact raft of bamboos, and the whole intermediate space of the river presents to our astonished gaze one dense mass of ships, junks and boats of every conceivable shape, color and size. As we glide among these we occasionally encounter a stray house broken loose from its moorings and hurrying down the stream with the tide, amidst the uproar and shouts of the inhabitants and all the spectators. We also noticed that all the front row of houses are neatly painted shops, in which various tempting commodities are exposed for sale; behind these again, at equal distances, rise the lofty, elegant porcelain towers of the various watts and temples On our right hand side, as far away as we can see, are three stately pillars, erected to the memory of three defunct kings, celebrated for some acts of valor and justice; and a little beyond these, looming like a line-of-battle ships among a lot of cockle-shells, rises the straggling and not very elegant palace of the king, where his Siamese majesty, with ever so many wives and children, resides.

Right ahead, where the city terminates, and the river, making a curve, flows behind the palace, is a neat looking fort, surmounted with a top of mango trees, over which peep the roofs of two houses and a flagstaff, from which floats the royal pennant and jack of Siam—a flag of red groundwork, with a white elephant worked in the centre. This is the fort and palace of the Prince Chou Fau King Siam, and one of the most extraordinary and intellectual men in the East. Of him, however, we shall see and hear more after we have bundled our traps on shore and taken a little rest Now be careful how you step out of the boat into the balcony of the floating house, for it will recede to the force of your effort to mount, and if not aware of this, you lose your balance and fall into the river. Now we are safely transhipped, for we cannot as yet say landed; but we now form an idea, though a very small one, of the vast population of the city of Bankok.

We take a brief survey of our present apartments, and find everything, through inconveniently small, clean and in other respects comfortable. First, we have a little balcony that overhangs the river, and is about twenty yards long by one and a half broad. Then we have an excellent sitting-room, which serves us for a parlor, dining room, and all; then we have a little side-room for books and writings; and behind these, extending the length of the other two, a bed-room. Of course we must bring or make our own furniture, for though those houses are pretty well off, on this score the Siamese have seldom anything besides their bedding materials, a few pots and pans to cook with, a few jars of stores, and a fishing net or two. Every house has a canoe attached to it, and no nation detests walking so much as the Siamese; at the same time they are all expert swimmers, and both men and women begin to acquire this very necessary art at a very early age. Without it a man runs a momentary risk of being drowned as, when a canoe upsets, none of the passers-by ever think it necessary to lend any aid, supposing them fully adequate to the task of saving their own lives. Canoes are hourly being upset, owing to the vast concourse of vessels and boats plying to and fro; and owing to this negligence or carelessness in rendering assistance, a Mr. Benham, an American missionary, lost his life some twelve years ago, having upset his canoe when it was just getting dusk, and though surrounded by boats, no one deemed it necessary to stop and pick the poor man up.

Narrow Escape of a Man from Murder—A Thrilling Story.

The Rochester (Minn) Union, in announcing the postponement of the trial of Whitney and Staley, charged with the murder of Albeitner, some time ago, relates the following thrilling story:

"We have been informed of a circumstance with which this trio were connected, which has not heretofore, we believe, been made public, but which possesses a degree of interest fully justifying its publication. The facts we gather from a brother of the assailed party, and a highly respected citizen, Mr. H W. Chamberlain.

"During October last, Mr. Abner M. Chamberlain, residing in Elmira, this county, had taken several loads of wheat to the St. Charles market. When he had delivered the last load he designed selling, he drew his money for the whole lot, amounting to several hundred dollars. It was near night when he was ready to leave for home, and by the time he had reached a piece of woods through which his road led, it had become quite dark: but not so dark as to prevent him from discovering, near the road side, the figure of a man, who promptly hailed Mr. Chamberlain, and inquired whether he was on the right road to Chatfield; and being answered in the affirmative, he then asked permission to ride. Mr. C checked his team and offered the applicant the favor he asked. The man placed himself in the rear part of the wagon, but there being ample room in the spring seat, the owner insisted that the man should come forward and share his seat. After some hesitation, he consented, with evident reluctance, however, and placed himself on the left side of Mr. Chamberlain.

"After proceeding a few rods, his companion quickly remarked, 'you sold your wheat to-day.' This question plainly revealed to Mr. Chamberlain the dangerous character and purpose of his companion, and he replied—'No, I did not sell, but left my wheat in store.' Edwards, (for it was undoubtedly him,) promptly replied:—'You're a d—d liar! You have over seven hundred dollars in your pocket!'—and before these words were fully uttered, he had, with his right hand, drawn a revolver, and with his left seized the lines. Chamberlain is a powerful, brave man, and fully comprehending the peril of the moment and the importance of instant action, he dealt his adversary a terrific blow under his chin, which sent him overboard.

"The revolver discharged one of its barrels when the would be robber and murderer reached the ground. The horses instantly took fright, and started at a high rate of speed—the reins having been thrown down when Edwards made his exit. The track was very narrow for some distance, and it required skillful driving to avoid a precipice on one side; but the horses fortunately kept the track, and after a flight of about three quarters of a mile, Mr. Chamberlain succeeded in making his way along the tongue of the wagon, and, mounting one of the horses, obtained possession of the lines and control of his team. It has since been ascertained, by confession of one of the parties, that Whitman and Staley were lying in ambush near the point where Edwards made his attack, and were prepared to aid in the murderous work. The escape of Mr. C. from the danger threatened by his companion, and subsequently the peril he was in during the flight of his team, was miraculous.

THE LORD NOT MUCH AHEAD.—A distinguished ex-Governor of Ohio, famous for story-telling,, relates that on one occasion, while he was addressing a temperance meeting at Georgetown, District of Columbia, and depicting the miseries caused by too freely indulging in the flowing bowl, his attention was attracted by the sobs of a disconsolate and seedy-looking individual seated in the rear part of the room. On going to the person and interrogating him, the governor was told the usual tale of woe: among other sad incidents, that during his career of vice he had buried three wives. The governor, having buried a few wives of his own, sympathized deeply with the inebriate, and consoled him as much as was in his power. Said he: "The Lord has indeed deeply afflicted you." The mourner, sobbing, replied: "Yes, He has;" and, pausing a moment and wiping his nose, continued, "but I don't think the Lord got much ahead of me, for as fast as He took one I took another."

THE BLACK CROOK IN CHICAGO.

A witty writer thus burlesques the National Republican Convention, which meets at Chicago in June next:

This celebrated entertainment which has, during the past winter, been exhibited with so much eclat through the Poland of America, will open at Chicago, in June, for a few days only. The managers intend that this shall excel any previous entertainment of the kind, and for this purpose, in addition to Horace Greely, the slate smashers, Dan. Sickles, the murderer, and Dyman Tremaine, the celebrated ground and lofty tumbler, and double-back action somersault thrower, and other distinguished stars, they are making arrangements for a new sensation, in the way of a black ballet troupe, and for which a large number of persons are being secured in South Carolina, Mississippi, and other portions of the new Poland. These performers are no bogus burnt corked imitators, but the real genuine long hecled, wooly pated, flat nosed, genuine nigs. Those from South Carolina are already secured.

This troupe will undoubtedly be the strongest ever organized. The public will have no occasion to bring their perfumes to this black and-tan show, as sufficient scent will be thrown in. It is expected that at this show, among other spectacles, will be enacted the startling drama of "Family Jars," by Charles Sumner.

"Cold Facts; or, the Horrors of Nitro Glycerine."

"En Dishabille; or a Breakfast at Willard's," by Dick Yates.

"Let all Obey: or, I'm Boss Here," by T. Stevens.

"Loyalty; or, How to get a Contract," by Full Company.

"Janus; or, Straddle the Fence," by H. J. Raymond.

"John A. Bingham: or, who Hung a Woman."

The farce of

"Ben Butler; or, Who Stole the Spoons."

"Ten Nights in a Bar-Room."

This will be played to mollify the moral visitors. The principal parts of which will be taken by Dick Yates, Zack Chandler and Bill Sprague, who are unequalled in this line.

The following is the programme of the vocal music:

"A National Debt is a National Blessing," (air for one voice) - Jay Cooke.

"Let us impeach," - T. Stevens.

To give effect the singer will be carried on a letter.

"I'll be Resigned." (in a horn), B. Wade.

There will also be performed the Opera of "Stick, or The Siege of the War Office;" illustrating the cohesive attraction of Radicals to office. This piece will be sustained by a full chorus, led by B. Van Horn, of New York. The solo and chorus in this piece between "Sticky" and "Congress," entitled "I'll Soap You and You Soap Me," is expected to bring down the house.

There will also be exhibited a few curiosities, among which are "Conservatism in the Republican Party." The specimen is rather small, as the supply is limited.

The celebrated Saddle in which Jack Pope had his headquarters.

Two successive editions of the New York Times advocating the same policy. Very scarce.

The Pistol used by General Sickles to immolate Key upon the altar of virtue.

Snakes taken from the boots of Dick Yates.

A Jar from the family of a New England Senator—broken.

A Republican that voted for Johnson. Secured at great expense.

The manuscript of Grant's life by his pa.

The bottle in which Grant sealed Butler.

A State that did not send a candidate for the Vice Presidency.

AN EASY DEATH.—Not many months since, a well-to-do farmer of a Connecticut village went to the telegraph office and wished to send a dispatch to his friends of the death and funeral of his wife. Being somewhat acquainted with the man, a lady operator expressed sympathy for him and his motherless children; whereupon the afflicted widower sobbed aloud, and the tears rapidly coursed down his cheeks. At last, becoming a little more composed, he said—"She's dead. She was worn out like an old setting hen. She died without a kick."

THE FREEMAN.

EBENSBURG, PA.,
THURSDAY, : : : : APRIL 30, 1868.

Democratic State Ticket.

FOR AUDITOR GENERAL:
HON. CHARLES E. BOYLE,
Of Fayette County.

FOR SURVEYOR GENERAL:
GEN. WELLINGTON H. ENT,
Of Columbia County.

THE TRIBUNE.

Our amiable friend of the Johnstown Tribune devotes, in its last issue, some column and a half to the FREEMAN. Not to be outdone in courtesy, we shall devote the same quantity of our space to its benefit, and, perhaps, even "go back" on it half a column or so. We shall quote the very words of the Tribune and follow them with our reply, so that our mutual readers can understand the ground of controversy between us.

Let us premise, however. John Hickman, a leading Radical member of the Legislature, in a speech in favor of negro suffrage, urged the Radicals to meet the issue squarely, and alleged that the negroes were better qualified to vote than "the Irish Roman Catholics," &c. He was followed by other Radical orators, who denounced the Irish as ignorant whisky drinkers and the Germans as lager beer swillers, etc.

The Tribune undertook to apologize for the imprudence of the Radical leader, and without attempted to contradict the slander on a large body of our citizens, endeavored to escape by alleging the folly of Hickman in thus exposing Radical opinions.

It then undertook to assert that the Radical party does not proscribe "any man on account of race, religion or color," and charged that the Democrats do so proscribe. We repelled the assertion, and denounced the article as abounding with misrepresentation.

The Tribune undertakes a reply, not that we have "said anything that merits a reply," but because it is disposed to "gratify our weakness." Then comes his extinguisher, and in order that nothing may be lost, we give the Tribune's words and our reply:

Tribune—"1. 'Proscription of any man on account of race, religion or color' we again assert is not a Republican principle. We point to the authoritative declarations of every state and national Republican convention that has ever been held as proof of our assertion. Nor has the practice of the party given any color of truth to the Freeman's allegation. On the contrary, time and again has the party, through its representatives, declared itself the friend of the well behaved foreign-born citizen, whether he be 'Roman Catholic' or Protestant."

Reply—The civilized world recognizes the theory that a revolution discharges the national debt: and our Radical opponents cancel their political sins in the same way. The Democratic party, whose existence is co-equal with that of our country, and which has always battled for the same principles under the same name, presents its record of three quarters of a century, and is willing to stand upon the merits or demerits of that record. The Republican party is the creature of a day, and has no record. The first Republican National Convention was held in 1856, and there was no resolution against foreigners or Catholics, for the simple reason that Know Nothingism was then in "failing circumstances." The second Republican Convention nominated sectional candidates whose success culminated in a war. In 1864 they dropped the name of Republican, and assumed the name of the Union party. It is entirely useless to argue that the Know Nothing party of 1854 and 1855 was the Republican party of 1856; they went over in a body, taking the new name, and what is a party but the aggregate of the persons who compose it?—Thus, by merely changing the name, they seek to get rid of their past deeds, and absolve themselves from the debt of proscription by a sort of political "statute of limitation." But even according to the Tribune's own showing it is "well behaved" foreigners whom they would not proscribe; and well-behaved foreigners, according to Puritanical Radicalism, are such as would treat the negro as an equal, eschew Democracy, and swear by Thad. Stevens. But we do and shall hold the present Radical party responsible for its past practices, under whatever name they held at the time.

Tribune—'A few years ago a Republican Congress passed a law to encourage immigration, and as late as Monday last the present Republican House of Representatives passed Mr. Banks's bill for the better protection of naturalized citizens traveling abroad."

Reply—Yes, when New England could not furnish a sufficient number of negro substitutes to take the places of her own stay-at-home patriots, the Radicals passed a bill to "encourage immigration" in order to fill up their quota, with the suggestive remark that "an Irishman or a German would do as well to stop a bullet as any one else." And Mr. Banks's bill for protecting foreigners abroad is in precise keeping with Radical policy. They want the foreigners to all "travel abroad."—What we complain of is that they proscribe them at home! Even Radical leaders make bunkum speeches for the "freedom of Ireland," while they would give a monopoly of the freedom of this country to the negro, ignoring the rights of the foreigner upon our soil!

Tribune—"Some of the ablest and most honored leaders of the Republican party are foreign born and 'Roman Catholic' in religion. Who, except General Grant, has received more honor from the Republican party than Generals Sherman and Sheridan? Yet they are both 'Roman Catholics.'"

Reply—If the above were correct (which does not happen to be the case) it would only prove that Catholic Generals, as well as Catholic soldiers, risked their lives to preserve the Union. We should like to see the Tribune's list of foreigners and Catholics in civil offices where there are large salaries and no danger.

Tribune—"In this county foreign born citizens and 'Roman Catholics' have frequently been placed upon the Republican ticket, and always received the full party vote."

Reply—Not so! In 1854 Pollock received 1627 votes, Darsie 1174—453 less; and though Darsie was the better man of the two, and a Protestant, he was guilty of being born in Scotland, though he was brought to this country in his mother's arms. But if the Tribune "pleads the statute" to this we refer it to 1859, under the Republican party, when Enos C. McMullin, the Republican candidate for Commissioner, ran 350 votes behind his ticket—the only objection to him being his religion! We might name other instances, but we forbear.

Tribune—"Concerning the other charge, that the Republican party 'proscribes the white man and gives power to the negro,' we have this to say, that, in the Rebel States, where white Democrats prove their loyalty by organizing themselves into Kuk Lux Klans for the murder of white Union men, Republicans do insist that a loyal black man should be the political equal of those scoundrels, while, to use the Freeman's own clumsy language, (see its third specification above), 'no [Northern] State, even the most radical, that has held an election within the last five years on the subject, that has not declared against the capacity of the negro for suffrage' in States that did not rebel."

Reply—Here's logic for you! The Tribune admits that Northern Radicals won't stand negro suffrage among themselves, where the negroes have an equal chance with the whites to become qualified: while in the South, in his degraded condition, the negro should vote, in order that he might "be the political equal of those scoundrels." The Tribune knows, or should know, that voting is a privilege based upon proper qualifications; and that the safety of every government must depend upon the intelligent exercise of suffrage. And yet it contends, on the above theory, that because one that he thinks, or chooses to call, a "scoundrel" votes on one side, it should be set-off by an unqualified negro vote upon the other! On that principle, we suppose, that as the "scoundrels" are reformed the negroes should quit voting. The murderous doings of Kuk Lux Klans is only a dyspeptic dream of the Tribune. That outrages occur in the South, by and against negroes and white men, results from the denial of self-government, and while we disapprove of the Kuk Lux Klan as being little better than Know Nothingism, it must be admitted that they are the natural spawn of oppression. Give the South a free government and these societies will vanish.

Tribune—"It is true that the Democratic party is a proscriptive party. We have said that it seeks to trample under its despotic heel the black victim of its own barbarous practices—trample and crush him like a viper simply because God made him black. He is not only everywhere treated by the Democratic party with contempt and ignominy, but he is systematically slandered—his vices exaggerated and his virtues denied. No matter how well he may deport himself, or how intelligent he may be, he is still in the eyes of the Democracy nothing but 'a damned nigger.' If this is not proscription of the very worst kind, what is it? And then, as if to add insult to the monstrous cruelties already heaped upon him, the Freeman says that its friends 'do not seek to deprive the negro of any privileges he ever had,' which includes, we suppose, the privilege of again serving his Rebel masters if the Democracy should ever again obtain control of the Government! O most rare magnanimity!"

Reply—What is the Democratic proscription of negroes?—of what rights have Democrats ever deprived them? Slavery existed in all the States North and South many years before any Democratic party ever existed. The Constitution recognized slavery, and the Democrats sustained the Constitution as the Great Bond of the Union of the States. As to the genteel phrase of the Tribune, "damned nigger," that is the coinage of his own brain. No Democratic national, state, county, town or township convention or meeting ever used the term. We cheerfully admit that Democrats do not choose to vote, or eat, or sleep with negroes, or to make him, what he can never be, the social equal of the white man. The Supreme Court (Judge Agnew, a Radical, delivering the opinion) agrees with the Democrats in this—but the Tribune is wiser. We take exception to the Tribune using the words "damned nigger." We never use even the latter term. "Nigger" is a word of reproach—therefore we don't use it.—Neither do we adopt the word "colored," (as the same number of the Tribune does in describing the attempts of a negro to take the life of a Johnstown white man with a razor, for protecting a white girl from negro insult,) because the negro is black, and black is no color, but the absence of color; therefore the negro is not a colored man. We do them justice even in name, and call them what they have always called themselves—"negroes."—On the question of voting, Democrats would only treat the ignorant and degraded negroes of the South as Radicals treat the comparatively intelligent negroes of the North, by denying them the right to vote.

Tribune—"3. We wish to be understood, and would fain hope that we may hereafter be truthfully represented, as not claiming nor having claimed 'equal privileges for the negroes.' If we could have our way they should everywhere vote upon the same terms as white men, even here in Pennsylvania. We are in favor of 'equal privileges' just that far. But we would deny to the 'negroes' the possession of other 'privileges' which have for at least a century been exercised by tens of thousands of whites, mostly Democrats, among which may be enumerated the 'privilege' of separating mother and child, the 'privilege' of making merchandise of human flesh, the 'privilege' of horsewhipping and otherwise brutally treating men and women, and the 'privilege' of making concubines of women without their consent. These 'privileges' of lordly whites of the South, now deplored by the Freeman and its party as having been lost to them by the war, we would forever deny to the 'negroes.' As for some other 'privileges' not mentioned, they will adjust themselves without legislation, and the Freeman and its friends fight a man of straw when they prate about them."

Reply—It is not easy to comprehend what the above flummery amounts to. If it refers to the origin of slavery, by the African barbarians making captives of each other, separating "mother and child," and all other family relations, and selling the victims to the slave traders of England and New England, then we can rejoice with the Tribune that the slave trade is forever abolished. As there never was "concubinage" and never can be "without consent," it is presumed the Tribune refers to the numerous cases of rape upon white women by negroes occurring since the reign of Radicalism commenced.

Tribune—"We would here close, but the Freeman insists upon being personal, and we mean not to be outdone in this line of editorial courtesy. It goes back to 1854, fourteen years ago, and, after conjuring up the ghost of Know Nothingism, is horror-stricken to remember that the editor of this paper had 'seen Sam' when he was alive. Yes, we were a Know Nothing. The Know Nothing organization was established to rid the country of the giant corruptions of the Democratic party, and it succeeded as far as was then possible. No matter now about the means employed—the end justified them. It was fighting fire with fire. But, mark ye! the Know Nothings did not involve the country in a bloody civil war, as the Democratic party afterwards did, nor did it resolve itself into a murderous Kuk Lux Klan. When its mission was accomplished, it died and was buried, and neither foreigner nor 'Roman Catholic' is today the worse for its having existed."

Reply—Here the Tribune is at least candid. He bravely admits [what very few K. N.'s have the honesty to admit] that he was a Know Nothing. Yes; the editor of the Tribune entered the Know Nothing Lodge and there swore solemnly upon the Holy Evangelists of Almighty God that he would never, FOR ANY OFFICE, VOTE FOR A FOREIGNER OR ROMAN CATHOLIC! He tells us that now Republicans vote for foreigners and Roman Catholics. Now the grave question arises, does the editor of the Tribune vote for foreigners and Catholics when on the Republican ticket? He says he does! Then the alternative presents itself, that he has committed moral perjury by violating the oath which he took in the face of high heaven, never to do so. And he coolly excuses himself with the standing apology for every crime, that "the end justifies the means." "No matter how about the means employed—the end justified them," says the Tribune. "Get money, Samivel, honestly if you can—but get money," was old Mr. Weller's advice to his son—and the editor of the Tribune is a faithful follower of the doctrine. But "neither the foreigner nor the Roman Catholic is to-day the worse of its having existed." How know you that? Wasn't the slaughtered Darsie the worse for it?—Were not a large number of the purest and best men in the country driven from her councils and marked in private life by the machinations of this hellish cabal. Foreigners and Roman Catholics were "the worse for it"—society was "the worse for it'—social decency and our character as a people were "the worse for it."

Tribune—"But it is a mean thing to endeavor to stir up strife between those who were political foes fourteen years ago, and who have long since smoked the pipe of sectarian and fraternal peace. As well might we revive the recollection of the extraordinary clerical feats of the editor of the Freeman when he was a resident of 'Morris' county, or tell the world, what he would doubtless gladly wish forgotten, that he, the said editor, was one of the first, the very first, members of the Republican party of Cambria county, a regular reader of the New York Tribune and a believer in all its tenets, which were the same then as now. But we will not refer to these things! We are opposed to fighting with poisoned arrows."

Reply—But it seems we have done a mean thing in referring to the Tribune's former Know Nothingism! We fail to "see it" in that light. The former political associations of a press or an editor, are a fair subject of comment, and we complain of no man for referring to the past political career of the FREEMAN or its editor. When the editor of the Tribune was a Know Nothing the Tribune itself was a Know Nothing paper. A man should never join an association which he becomes ashamed of afterwards. But if it is mean of us to charge the editor of the Tribune with being a Know Nothing, how superlatively mean was it for him to be one. He is valiantly blowing the Radical trumpet now—fourteen years hence he will be equally ashamed of that, and think it mean to remind him of it. Nor should we seek to galvanize into existence the defunct carcass of Know Nothingism only that Hickman, and other of the more candid Radicals, still show that it is latent in the Radical party, ready to crop out whenever a political necessity requires it. And, notwithstanding the Tribune's pretended liberality to foreigners, whenever the desire to obtain or retain power makes it necessary to doff the Radical and don the Know Nothing, it will stand just where it did in 1854. While its editor, in common with many other K. N.'s, has too much intelligence to imbibe the ignorant prejudices against "foreigners and Catholics," whenever the thirst of power requires that those portions of our fellow citizens should be disfranchised, he would be ready to do again what he has done before—unless, perhaps, the Catholic should have the mitigating quality of being a negro. What he would do then is the only puzzle.

The former opinions of the editor of the FREEMAN are of but little consequence to the world. Such as they are, or were, they have never been hidden. They have always been uttered in the light of day, and not concealed within the foul portals of a Know Nothing lodge. He was an Old Line Whig when Clay and Webster were Old Line Whigs, and he now stands where the children of Clay and Webster stand. He was the reader of the New York Tribune for a whole year, while that paper opposed the Know Nothings. At that time the Republican doctrine was non-interference with the rights and institutions of the Southern States, and opposition to the erection of new slave States. The editor of the FREEMAN never voted a Republican ticket, different as their doctrine was from that of the Radicals. At that time Greely had not pronounced for negro and female suffrage—had not bailed Jeff. Davis because Radical judges had refused to try him—and had not yet called the country Radical editors [including him of the Tribune] a set of "blockheads."

The Tribune is "opposed to fighting with poisoned arrows"—that is after they have left his quiver; but very meanly, as we think, makes an insinuation about our personal character, by referring to our "clerical feats" in "Morris" county.—While it complains of us for referring to the editor's political position fourteen years ago, it attacks our personal character by innuendo as to what occurred thirty years ago. If we could be guilty of the Tribune's sophistry we might lay the alleged offence to the teachings of his party, and dare him to scan our Democratic record for anything of the kind since we have got into purer company.

We were clerk of the Morris township election, in 1838, and took down the names of voters as given us by the officers. THEY were prosecuted, and we were subpœnaed as a witness against them.—They were acquitted. Two of them since died in the odor of Radical sanctity—two of them still live, and are as bitter Radicals as the editor of the Tribune, and would not thank him for his remarks—As he ought to know something about what he discusses, we beg leave to refer him to these surviving election officers, and no doubt he will get further evidence of our misconduct by addressing Mr. Geo. Davis, Yellow Springs, or Wm. Hammond, Esq., Williamsburg, in Blair county.

Tribune—"And now will the Freeman in its next issue make the corrections indicated in the above reply, as well as beg our pardon?"

Reply—Ah ve you have our apology, and we fear it is graver than the offence. We have at least treated you fairly in giving your entire article, and surely you will not complain that our reply is sandwiched in between the paragraphs.

Our language may, as you say, be somewhat clumsy, but our readers generally understand it. In long sentences we are frequently "clumsy," but we can always write sentences of only three words correctly. For instance:

Tribune—"We will see."

Reply—We shall see.

SOUTHERN MURDERS—WHO COMMIT THEM?—Whenever any radical firebrand, loyal leaguer or negro is killed or hurt in the South the radical press and orators of the North make a terrible noise about it. They ring the changes and howl day after day about rebel outrages, rebel hatred and rebel murderers, but we never hear anything from them concerning the murdered Southern whites and black outrages. The radical papers are full of sensation accounts and denunciations of the murder of Ashburne, in Georgia, but they say nothing about the white one-armed ex-confederate soldier who was shot dead on his horse recently near Selma, Alabama, or of the other four white men who have been murdered in the same vicinity since the war, and no one arrested for these murders. No, we hear nothing from these Radicals, of the numerous other murders of the conquered Southern whites and outrages on them in other localities of the South, because there is every reason to believe this is the work of the black loyal leaguers. At a public procession and meeting of negroes at Macon, Georgia, on March 30, the "loyal blacks" carried a banner on which the figure of a negro, cut in pasteboard, hung dangling from a gallows, and to which was attached, on a piece of white paper, the following inscription: "Every man who don't vote a Radical ticket this is the way we want to do him—hang him by the neck." These radical loyal league negroes boldly proclaimed, too, that the negro who failed to register should receive thirty-nine lashes; if he failed to vote at the election, two hundred lashes, and if he voted the democratic ticket he should be hanged. Need we be surprised, then, that white Southerners are murdered in every part of the South and that the murderers are never arrested? The Northern friends of these black barbarians pretend not to know anything about these murderous doings. It is clear that the South under radical rule is fast tending to anarchy and to a worse condition than St. Domingo was ever in.—New York Herald.

THE mongrel conspirators no longer put a cloak upon their treasonable acts, nor a bridle upon their tongues. Says the Washington correspondent of the Philadelphia Inquirer: "In two weeks' time Andrew Johnson will cease to be the President of the United States, and the Executive and Legislative branches of the Government be in perfect harmony. That done, the next step will be to reconstruct the Supreme Court, by securing a majority of the judges, who shall be in political accord and sympathy with the great party of the people now dominant in nearly every State in the Union. To do this it will be necessary to increase the number of justices to thirteen." This means that President Johnson's "crime" is want of harmony with the treasonable schemes of the Radical leaders to force themselves as rulers upon the people through bayonets and negro suffrage. It means also that the Supreme Court has been guilty of the same "crime," and, after the President shall have been disposed of, it must be prostituted to the base uses of the partisan conspirators by adding to it a lot of the lowest partisan tools that can be fished up from the dirty political pool. What think the honest, decent, patriotic citizens of Pennsylvania of such an infamous plot?

—It is reported that the ruins of a town, canals, &c., have been discovered in Utah, a few miles above the mouth of Salt river. The canals are from thirty-five to fifty feet in width, and the walls, which are from five to eight feet high, have been traced ten or fifteen miles from the river. The ruins are at intervals the length of the valley. Cotton, tobacco and castor beans are still found growing luxuriantly upon the old farms around.

—The arms of Mrs. Teale, a young lady of Brooklyn, N. Y., have been paralyzed from the effects of tight lacing, and she has thus been made almost entirely helpless.

—Col. J. Herron Foster, one of the proprietors and the chief editor of the Pittsburg Dispatch, died on Tuesday morning. He was a gentleman of fine abilities, and much esteemed by all who knew him.

—A young Indian maid, visiting a flouring mill in Winona, Minnesota, surreptitiously got hold of the stencils and adorned her white blanket with "Ellsworth choice," in bright red letters, after which she strutted down street, to the eventual horror of the bachelor Ellsworth who owns the mill.

—Such United States Senators as are suspected of having any regard for their oaths are being subjected to all kinds of intimidation to prevent them from voting to acquit President Johnson. It remains to be seen whether they have sufficient manhood to give a verdict according to the law and the evidence.

—The Newark, New Jersey, people are out of patience with the steam man, and the Courier of that city says: "When will this humbug, all about an iron boiler in a smock frock, be done with? That which is called 'the steam man' never did, and, in all probability, never will, walk the length of his nose."

—The thirteen citizens of Columbus, Ga., who were arrested by the military authorities on suspicion of complicity in the assassination of Ashburn, who was killed in a negro brothel in that city, have been released by Gen. Meade, a large number of citizens of Columbus having signed their bail bonds in the sum of $2,500 each.

—A little family controversy has been going on for the past two years in Bloomfield, Ct., over a matter in cash value not exceeding twenty-five cents, and $1,500 has already been expended in the courts about it, with no better prospect of settlement than ever. The parties are members of good standing in the Methodist Church, and own property among them to the value of $2,100,000.

—The bones of an enormous reptile of the lizard family have been received from Kansas by the Academy of Natural Sciences of Philadelphia, to which they have been presented by the discoverer, Dr. Turner. The geologists of the Academy are busy chiseling out the remains from the crystalized gypsum in which they were found imbedded. The back-bone has been cleared of its rocky case, and the vertebra put together, extends in length about thirty feet. With the head and tail it is believed to have been at least fifty feet in length.

MRS. LINCOLN'S OPINION OF GRANT.—Mrs. Lincoln had her own views of those who held high positions under her husband, and she was in the habit of speaking out very freely. Her opinion of Grant was not flattering, but, unless we are much mistaken it will generally be regarded as remarkably correct. In the hearing of her spouse, she said:

"Grant is a butcher, and is not fit to be at the head of our army." But," replied Mr. Lincoln, "he has been very successful." "Yes," replied Mrs. Lincoln, "he generally manages to claim a victory, but such a victory. He loses two men for the enemy's one. If the war should continue four years longer, and he in power, he would depopulate the North. According to his tactics there is nothing under heaven to do but to march a new line of men up in front of the Rebel breastworks to be spot down as fast as they take their position. Grant, I repeat, is an obstinate fool and a butcher."

That is decidedly severe on the gentleman who smokes in silence, but we have no doubt the judgment of posterity will fully corroborate the opinion expressed by Mrs. Lincoln.

The balance of the land is well set with sugar, chestnut, locust and other marketable timber. There is a comfortable FRAME HOUSE and a FRAME BARN on the premises, and an Orchard of choice Fruit Trees that have never yet failed to bear. There is also a never-failing spring of pure water and other necessary conveniences on the premises. The Farm will be sold on fair terms and easy payments, and an indisputable title will be given. What is known as Bradley's Station, on the E. & C. Rail Road, is located on this land.

Further information can be obtained by applying to CHARLES BRADLEY.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

WE ARE STILL MAKING A COMPLETE REVOLUTION IN TRADE and selling every description of Dry and Fancy Goods, Plated Ware, Jewelry, Watches, Sewing Machines, &c., for the uniform price of ONE DOLLAR. We would impress upon our patrons that our Stock is not composed of second handed goods or Pawn Broker's unredeemed stock, but goods carefully selected direct from American and European Manufactories, the greater portion of which are MANUFACTURED EXCLUSIVELY FOR US, which fact enables us to offer our customers better Goods for the money than those who profess to be "Manufacturers' Agents," or than can be obtained in any other way.

The unparalleled increase of our business, and the endorsement of prominent business men and the press in general, is a convincing proof that we have adopted the fairest and most popular system ever inaugurated before the public. We are the first who have attempted to make a "Revolution in Trade," by enabling the public to procure goods in small quantities at manufacturers' prices, thus saving the consumer three large profits made in passing through the hands of the Commission Merchant, the Wholesaler, and Retailer.

Send Clubs of ten or more, with ten cents for each descriptive check, and the getter up of the club will receive a present worth $3 to $250, according to number sent. Send for our New Circular. We have also made arrangements with the GREAT ORIENTAL TEA CO., of Boston, so that we can furnish our customers with other Goods and their full line of teas at precisely the same terms to Agents as though dealing directly with the company, thus giving an opportunity of selecting from the various grades any quality they may desire. We also pay agents the same commissions as allowed by the Company. Blank form of order, with price-list and "The Tea Cup," sent to any address.

INDISPENSABLE FOR LADIES. It is the SEWING GUIDE, a beautiful article for the assistance of ladies in hand sewing, not only protecting the finger from the ugly prick of the needle, but, being provided with a rib, the stitches are made with exact regularity, and increased rapidity. It also keeps the point of the needle in perfect condition. For all kinds of embroidering and crocheting it is invaluable.

The GUIDE is elegantly silver-plated, and will sell at sight to every lady. Sent to any address, by mail, on receipt of 25 cents, or solid silver, for 75 cents.

Agents wanted in every town. Terms and sample for 25 cents. Liberal discount to the trade. Address NILES MANUF'G CO., 55 Water St., Boston, Mass.

THURSDAY, : : : APRIL 30, 1868.

LOCAL AND PERSONAL.

EDITORIALITIES, LOCAL AND GENERAL.—Irwin Parchy, white, and Ellen Edminson, negro, were recently married in McVeytown.

Our friend, Dr. Sam'l Belford, Surgeon Dentist, has taken the front room over Mr. Huntley's store, which he will henceforth occupy as an office during his monthly visits to our town.

The Union Singing Class, of which Prof. H. H. Hughes has been the tutor, will give a vocal and instrumental concert, in the English, Welsh, and German languages, in the Lutheran church, Jackson township, on Friday evening next.

Mr. S. J. Weakland has located himself in our midst for the purpose of pursuing his trade, and we can recommend him, from our own personal knowledge, as a competent blacksmith, and one deserving of liberal encouragement. See his advertisement.

An insane Jewess, en route for a Philadelphia asylum, walked off the rear end of a passenger train on the Pa. R. R., near Bell's Mills, a few days since, while the train was under full headway, and strange to say escaped with but a few slighti njuries.

A bill passed the Legislature before its adjournment reducing the number of Councilmen from five to three in each ward of this borough, and increasing the term of service from one to three years. It has not yet received the sanction of the Governor.

Mr. A. J. Hawk's cement, fire brick and pottery manufactory at Johnstown was entirely destroyed by fire on Wednesday morning of last week, involving a loss of $12,000, on which there is an insurance of only $4,000. The origin of the fire is unknown.

The railroad office at Hollidaysburg was entered by burglars a couple of weeks since, the safe blown open and destroyed by powder, and some forty dollars in money and about one hundred in checks abstracted therefrom. Payment on the checks has been stopped.

The present engagement of our ever welcome and ever interesting correspondent "Sku Bal," as local editor of the Altoona Vindicator, has interfered with his weekly contributions to our columns, but we trust that an arrangement will ere long be made which will enable him to visit his old home once a week and from there address the readers of the FREEMAN in his usual happy style.

The signatures of Daniel K. Ramey, of Hollidaysburg, and Richard McClain, of Altoona, were forged to a check for $700, and presented at the First National Bank of Altoona by a woman named Kate Stover, not long since, who drew $800 and an obligation for $400 more, and then left for more congenial parts. She was overhauled, however, and the money recovered, after which she was permitted to go on her way.

The great length of the reply to the Johnstown Tribune, given this week, precludes the publication of MacShane's account of his visit to Altoona, which is also somewhat lengthy. It will keep until next week without spoiling. The same reason will account for the absence of our Carrolltown letter, our oft-promised list of receipts, as well as for the curtailment to a great extent of the letter of our Altoona correspondent. Would like to give all a hearing, but "necessity knows no law," and we are forced to submit.

REV. B. M. KERR.—This gentleman has received and accepted a call from the Presbyterian congregation of Ebensburg. We congratulate the congregation on their selection. Mr. Kerr is an able and eloquent pulpit orator, and a polished, social gentleman. From a personal acquaintance, and from having heard Mr. K., we fully endorse the following complimentary notice, taken from the Cumberland Valley Journal, published at his former residence:

RESIGNED.—We regret to learn that at the meeting of Carlisle Presbytery, held at Greencastle, on last week, the pastoral relations between Rev. B. M. KERR and the Presbyterian church in this place were dissolved at his request.

Mr. KERR came to this place about three years since, and during that time he labored with most earnest zeal for the promotion of the interest, spiritual and temporal, of the church under his charge; and he has the pleasing satisfaction of knowing that his labors were not in vain; for during his ministry a large number of members were added to the church, and a considerable amount of the church debt liquidated.

In addition to Mr. K's fine pulpit abilities he is most social and cordial in manner, and during his stay here made numerous friends, who will regard his departure with genuine regret, and whose best wishes will accompany him wherever he may go.

YOUNG AMERICA'S CONCERT, given at the Court House on Friday evening last, was a most complete success, and drew together the largest assemblage of people that probably ever convened in that building. The little folks did all that could reasonably have been expected of them, and the Crystal Band excelled itself, if possible, in the production of the most enlivening strains of music.—Several of the little girls acquitted themselves with a degree of self-possession and musical proficiency which excited general wonder and admiration, and none more so than little Mollie Price and Ellen Davis, aged respectively six and ten years. Both these little girls possess most charming voices, and their sweet, innocent faces added additional charms to their almost infantile warblings. The selections, with a few exceptions, were not the finest that could have been made, but probably were such as could only have been rendered so artistically by juvenile voices. Mr. Hughes, the teacher, evidently has the rare gift of imparting vocal instruction with entire success, and we are pleased to bear witness to his talent as evidenced by the proficiency of the children who participated in this concert.

CARD OF THANKS AND ADIEU.—The undersigned cannot separate from "Young America" and the "Crystal Band," on his trip to the far-distant West, without acknowledging his gratitude, which he felt himself unable to express at the close of the concert. And in taking leave of them he cannot refrain from adopting the words of the Psalmist: "If I forget thee, Young America, let my right hand forget her cunning; if I do not remember thee, let my tongue cleave to the roof of my mouth."—Affectionately, farewell. HUGHES.

THE robin and bluebird came some time ago. The deep-voiced frog makes nightly music in the pond. The blue bottle fly buzzes cheerily in the sunshine, and the moskeeto is not a stranger. On Tuesday morning, the first martin arrived—that infallible harbinger of the vernal season. Spring has come! R. R. Davis' new stock of cheap and stylish spring goods has also come! In view of this combination of great and glorious facts, let us first rejoice, and then go to Mr. D.'s and see what he has got and buy what we need.

ALTOONA CITY, April 27, 1868.

Friend Mac—The startling cry of "Fire!" resounded through our streets a few evenings ago, and soon attracted from all points a long procession of people anxiously inquiring as to the whereabouts of the conflagration. The lurid light soon directed us to the spot, when we found that it was a large house of private deposit connected with the W. Ward School House. The building was entirely destroyed with all its inmates—several hundred. Doubtless the work of an incendiary.

The Odd Fellows celebrated on Saturday the anniversary of the establishment of their order by a public parade in full regalia, after which they repaired to the Lutheran Church and listened to an eloquent oration from that able orator and zealous divine, Rev. Baker.

Business is reviving briskly in our city. Labor is in demand, and more buildings are going up this Spring than there were last. Our Methodist friends are erecting a neat and handsome chapel on the south side of the city, the large church on the west side having become entirely too small for the accommodation of their greatly increased numbers. The Lutherans are going to make a large addition to and otherwise improve their church building, while the Baptists contemplate the erection of the finest house of worship in our midst. Some of our enterprising citizens are putting up a town hall, market house and academy. Mr. C. Jaggard has under way several fine buildings—Otto Rossi is tearing down his store and residence to build on a larger scale—Miss E. McMullin is building a large and commodious shop for that first class workman and bully boy, Geo. Yeager. The city authorities are also about trying their hands at the building business, and so it is throughout the city.

The black and tans of the third ward are at their old game of lying and deception.—They have petitions in circulation praying for the removal of the election polls from the Woods House to a stable belonging to one of the black and tan fraternity. They were particularly careful not to ask any person, except one or two, not truly "loil" to sign these petitions. One man, poor soul, Worked hard in aid of the cause. These scavengers are never so happy as when they are a doing a dirty, contemptible, cowardly act. We shall see whether Judge Rose will stultify himself by sanctioning this outrageous proceeding when it is presented to Court for approval.

Our radical plugs had quite a war on a small scale in the organization of a Grant Club, or rather after it was organized. They elected the ninth part of a man, a racy chap, President, a gentleman of wonderful Powers Vice President, and a Patent man Secretary. After the meeting a few of the elect called on the President to adjust a little misunderstanding. A sharp colloquy ensued, and from words they came to blows—the war waxed warm and was carried into Africa. This racy President, forgetting his early religious training, in a fit of "loil" indignation seized a hatchet and swore by damn if they didn't immediately vacate his shanty he would find a road to their brains, if they had any. After several gymnastic feats these "loil" intruders beat a hasty retreat through the hole the carpenter left, feeling rather unpleasant sensations in the vicinity of their latter ends. T. I. M.

A PROGRESSIVE CITY.—A few months absence from Altoona enabled us to recognize more readily, during our recent visit, the astonishing progress which that goodly city has made in substantial improvements and enlarged enterprises. On all sides may be witnessed evidences of thrift and business tact and talent, and nowhere else within its limits are these evidences more plainly visible than at the large business establishment of the Altoona Warehouse Company, which is in itself one of the most important enterprises yet set on foot in this portion of the State. This Company makes known its facilities for merchandising through our advertising columns to-day, and our readers will not only do well to examine their card, but cannot fail to save money in buying from and make money in selling their produce to the Altoona Warehouse Company, which is composed of reliable, liberal and progressive business men.

Another no less important enterprise in its way is the large wholesale and retail tin, copper and sheet iron ware and stove depot of Messrs. Fries & Bro., which certainly exceeds in dimensions of room and extent of stock any similar establishment outside cities of greater pretensions. While in this store we were shown a most desirable Cook Stove, called the "Mountain Star," manufactured expressly for this firm, which has many apparent advantages over any other stove yet brought before the public. It is got up with reversible cross pieces, which can be placed any way upon the stove, and by which means the tendency of these pieces to warp is entirely avoided. It is much heavier than other stoves, and will commend itself to all who examine it, as indeed will all other articles kept by the Messrs. Fries, who are enabled to do better for their customers than any other dealers we know of.

THE ALTOONA VINDICATOR.—This new advocate and vindicator of Democratic principles has made its appearance, and in ability, dimensions and typographical execution it is just such a paper as the fearless, faithful and enterprising Democracy of Altoona will appreciate and sustain with their wonted liberality. Messrs. Campbell & Son have the taste and spirit to print a handsome and readable newspaper, and with Mr. C. W. Easly (our own pleasant, wide-awake and able Johnstown correspondent, "Sku Bal,") in charge of the local department, the Vindicator cannot fail to sustain itself in the position it has already assumed as a Democratic organ and a local journal. We certainly wish it the most abundant success, and knowing as we do that its "lines have been cast in pleasant places," we certainly see no reason why it should not become a permanent, as it cannot fail to be a popular, institution of the embryo city at the foot of the hill. To the Vindicator, its proprietors, and none the less to its competent and capitivating local editor, we wish a long and prosperous career among the enterprising and whole-souled citizens of Altoona.

DEMOREST'S YOUNG AMERICA.—This publication improves with every Number. It contains double the amount of reading matter which it did at first, and has a succession of the brilliant colored pictures and toy novelties which have done so much to establish its reputation. It is a bright, clear, and instructive little Monthly. We recommend it to all who wish to supply their families with a good juvenile periodical. Subscription price, $1.50, with a premium knife or microscope, etc. Publication office, 473 Broadway.

THERE was a man in our town,
And he was wise—you bet!
He ran a bill at all the stores,
And so got into debt.

And when he found himself in debt,
With all his might and main
He ran to H. A. Shoemaker's store
And bought all the goods he needed for self and family for a year to come, and so got out again.

[For the Cambria Freeman.]

The Equalization of Taxes for School Purposes.

A proposition to which I desire to call attention, is that of equalization of Taxes for School Purposes. At present, the blessings of popular education, and the burdens of taxation for school purposes, are sadly unequal in the different parts of the State. The genial smiles of the school system, unlike "the quality of mercy," fall not

"As the gentle rain from heaven
Upon the place beneath."

In many districts where the highest rates of school tax are paid, the schools can be kept open only the minimum school term, and with great difficulty at that. A few statistics will best illustrate this: Cambria county pays for "school purposes" a tax of 12 15 mills on the dollar, and keeps her schools open 4.5 months in the year; Lancaster county pays but 3.3 mills on the dollar, and keeps her school open 6.75 months in the year. Again: Clearfield county pays a tax of 11 mills on the dollar, and keeps her schools open less than 4.5 months in the year; Bucks county pays a tax of 4.13 mills on the dollar, and keeps her schools open more than 8 months in the year. Jefferson county pays a tax of 11.5 mills on the dollar, and keeps her schools open a little more than 4.5 months in the year; Chester county pays only 3.83 mills on the dollar, and keeps her schools open 8 months in the year. From this we see that the people of Cambria county pay nearly 9 mills on the dollar more taxes than the people of Lancaster county, and yet receive 2.25 months less school term every year. In the same manner we find that the people of Clearfield county pay nearly 7 mills on the dollar more, and receive nearly 4 months less school term, than the people of Bucks county; while the inhabitants of Jefferson county pay more than 7 mills on the dollar more tax than the inhabitants of Chester county, yet the latter receive 3.5 months more of school every year than the former.

This inequality and unfairness exists between different districts in every section of the State. The remedy can be found only in an equalization of the taxation for school purposes over the entire Commonwealth. It has been well said, that as the safety and prosperity of a free State depend upon the virtue and intelligence of its citizens, and as these qualities can only exist by being propagated by means of a virtuous education, it becomes the duty of the State to make provision for the education of those who are to be its future citizens. And, in making provision for education, it is the duty of the State to furnish means of instruction, to an equal degree, to the children of all its parts, since it is upon the virtue and intelligence of the whole, and not upon a part merely, of its citizens, that the prosperity and safety of the State depend. Therefore, the humblest child, in the poorest district, ought to have facilities for elementary instruction, equal to those residing in the most favored part of the State."

By a proper adjustment of the taxation, every section and every district of the State would have an equal burden to bear, and would receive an equal share of the benefits flowing from a wise and well-conducted school system. A slightly heavier load would be imposed on those sections which have hitherto had but little to carry, while a corresponding relief would be afforded those poorer districts which have for years been upbearing a weight of taxation that would crush even broad shouldered Atlas to the ground. A beneficent institution would then be sustained by a moderate burden weighing upon all sections alike, and the on-coming generations of Pennsylvanians would be indoctrinated in the principles of "Virtue, Liberty, and Independence," the glorious trinity inscribed upon the escutcheon of our State. Such are the men who should constitute the Commonwealth.

"Men who their duties know,
But know their right, and, knowing dare maintain;
Prevent the long-aim'd blow,
And crush the tyrant while they rend
the chain."

To educate the youth of our country to this high status, is the imperative duty of the State, and to do this, impartial advantages must be afforded to all. We cannot think that the State has performed its entire duty when it has merely laid the same burden upon the shoulders of all sections, and has not considered the ability of the different sections to bear it.

But we do not ask the State to take a step backward. No; the step that we would ask her to take would be a progressive one. We claim that it is simply just that Lancaster and Bucks and Chester and other wealthy counties should share with us the burden of educating the youth of our country. Cambria and Jefferson counties are just as much integral parts of the State as any other counties, and their children should be educated just as well as the children of any other part of the Commonwealth.

We do not complain because we have to pay a higher rate of taxes than any other county in the State. Cambria county will do her duty all the time. She will educate her children at whatever it costs. The school system is bound up in the hearts of her people. There is not a non accepting district in the county, and there has not been one for years. The number of opponents of the system in the county, who know what they are talking about, would not make up a corporal's guard. We have as good school houses, as well qualified teachers, as zealous directors, as appreciative people, as any county. We pay our teachers as good salaries as any county. But it is all we can do. We are about up to the limit. And we ask now for an equalization of the taxes not as a charity, not in a complaining spirit, but because it would be only just and right, and because we would enjoy the sight of seeing other people do as they would wish to be done by. T. J. C.

WHITE TOWNSHIP, April 20, 1868.

MR. R. L. JOHNSTON—Dear Sir: Noticing an error in a statement made in your last issue of the FREEMAN, I take pleasure in correcting the same so far as my knowledge of the affair extends. The dispute between Ginlet and Finley, arising out of an overindulgence in fighting whiskey, did not occur in White township, but in Clearfield township, at the residence of Ginlet, the principal tragedian. As for White township, I think it stands about as high in point of morality or temperance as any of her sister townships in the county. She can at present proudly boast of five churches, seven school houses, and last but not least of all, not a single rum shop or drinking house within her limits. Can a township in this or any of the adjoining counties beat it? By giving place to the above in your columns, you will greatly oblige A CITIZEN.

[The above state of things is true of our White population generally.—Ed. Freeman.]

READE READ REED.—The last Johnstown Tribune, in noticing the visit to its sanctum of our legal friend and townsman, George M. Reade, Esq., misspells his name, and makes him Reed, "a thing shaken by the wind."

PITTSBURG QUARTERLY MAGAZINE.—We owe an apology to our friend, J. Trainor King, for failing to acknowledge at an earlier day the reception of a copy of the above named Magazine, of which he is editor, and the perusal of which has afforded us no little gratification, not to say sound and solid information. The work is got up in most excellent typographical taste, and is replete with historical, biographical, poetical, and miscellaneous contents—a credit alike to the editor and printer. "Pittsburg, Past and Present," a paper of which Mr. King is the author, and the first chapter of which is published in connection with this pamphlet, is a most interesting, instructive, and entertaining sketch of the rise and progress of the "Iron City," and indicates a fund of careful thought, diligent search, and thorough digest of old manuscripts and historical studies which does honor to the mind and descriptive powers of our friend, the author. Mr. King was at one time a resident of Johnstown, and is well and favorably known in this county; and for his own sake, as well as for the merits of the Magazine itself, we trust that his literary labors will be properly appreciated in our midst. The subscription price is only fifty cents per year, and the money could not be better invested. Address Dwyer & King, Pittsburg.

THEY SAY that spring has arrived. They say that the circus has arrived. They say that the borough laws have been published. They say there is to be another snow storm, and they say a good many things. But they do say, and any person can prove it, that C. T. Roberts has just received another lot of fine gold and silver watches, gold rings, breastpins, Morton's celebrated gold pens, pearl and gold sleeve buttons, watch chains, &c. He keeps also, as you might know if you'd drop in, books, clocks, stationery, Singer's and Grover & Baker's sewing machines, papers, magazines, and 1,000 other different articles. He says he is bound to sell, and has reduced prices accordingly. He offers a Grover & Baker sewing machine for five dollars less than they were a short time since, and a Singer machine also five dollars less than the old price. Call and get one!

THE sky with clouds was overcast,
The rain began to fall,
My wife she beat the children
And they began to squall.
The very kittens on the hearth,
They dare not even play,
For its scrub, scrub, scold, scold,
All on the washing day.

This used to be the condition of affairs before the introduction of the Washing Machine, but since that important epoch washing day has become as peaceful and pleasant as any other day in the week. The most perfect machine in the market—the easiest to operate and the most effectual in its work—is the celebrated Doty Clothes Washer, for sale at manufacturers' prices by George Huntley, Ebensburg. It never injures the clothes, and is liked the better the longer it is used. Go and see it.

THE palindrome is a line or sentence that reads alike backward or forward. One of the best is Adam's first observation to Eve, "Madam, I'm Adam." Another is a remark attributed to the great Napoleon, at St. Helena, who, on being asked by an Englishman if he could have sacked London, replied, "Able was I ere I saw Elba." The sentence, "Buy your goods at Thompson's!" is not a palindrome, but it forms a motto which our readers would do well to bear in remembrance.

THE Show will be in town to day! Take a look at the elephants! Behold the massive golden chariot! Pay attention to the procession! Mark the excellent condition of the horses and ponies! Count the cages, and hear the wild beasts roar! After this, go to V. S. Barker's cheap cash store and see the grand array of articles of utility on his shelves. Admission to the show, 50 cents; admission to Barker's store, nothing.

A WEATHER PREDICTION.—Dr. Sam'l Rutzky, of Prussia, predicts that there will be only two seasons instead of four in America hereafter, commencing with the present year. We don't know how this may be, but we have more than prediction for saying that whether this is Spring or Summer the mammoth stock of dry goods and millinery goods in store at the establishment of Leopold Mayer, Parke's building, Main street, Johnstown, is just in season, and one of the finest, largest and cheapest that has ever graced the shelves of any store in the mercantile mart of Cambria county.

SPRING brings us genial skies, budding flowers, and all that goes to make Mother Earth beautiful, but none of its blessings are looked for with greater anxiety by the male sex than the Spring styles of ready-made Clothing sent forth by L. Cohen & Bro., Parke's new building, Main street, Johnstown.

USE THE BEST.—Blades' Euphonial Lubricators are a medical preparation in the form of a Lozenge, and are universally considered the most pleasant, convenient and effectual remedy in use for Hoarseness, Coughs, Colds, Croups, Catarrh, Asthma, Bronchitis, Diptheria, and all Pulmonary Complaints. They are WARRANTED to give quicker and more lasting benefit in the above affections than any other remedy. Also to contain no deleterious ingredient, and not to offend the weakest and most sensitive Stomach.

Blades' Constitution Pills are so called because of their peculiar effect upon the Liver, Stomach, Blood and Nervous System. For inactivity of the Liver, for the Stomach in derangement, or Dyspepsia, they will delight the patient with their mild and beneficial effect, especially if after long continued indigestion and costiveness, they are left with periodical returns of the Sick Headache. In case of a severe cold, producing Chills and Fever, you can break it very soon by using the Pills as per directions with each box. JOHN H. BLADES & CO.,

DIED.

M'DUNN—At Hastings, Dakota county, Minn., on the 18th inst., Mr. Bernard McDunn, aged 39 years. The deceased was formerly a resident of Cambria county, and indeed was reared, we believe, within its limits, but for the past eleven years he has resided in Minnesota. He was an honest, industrious and much esteemed citizen of that State, and his death will cause universal regret among his many friends there as well as here. He has left a wife and five children.

WAGNER—At Chest Springs, this county, on Tuesday morning last, Mrs. ——, wife of M. D. Wagner, Esq., aged — years.

NOTICE.—The public is hereby notified that I have this day purchased from Samuel F. George, of Chest Springs, the following articles, which I have left in his possession at my pleasure, viz: 2 Mares, 2 sets Harness, 1 Wagon, 1 pair Bob Sleds, 1 one horse Sled, 1 Shovel Plow and 1 Fanning Mill. GEO. RUTLEDGE.

AUDITOR'S NOTICE.—The undersigned Auditor, appointed by the Orphans' Court of Cambria county to distribute the funds in the hands of Mary Nagle, Administratrix of Richard H. Nagle, dec'd, to and among the persons legally entitled thereto, hereby gives notice that he will attend to the duties of said appointment, at the office of F. P. Tierney, Esq., in Ebensburg, on Friday, the 22d day of May next, at 2 o'clock P. M., when and where all persons interested will attend, or be debarred from coming in for any share of said fund.
apr.30.-3t. JAS. C. EASLY, Auditor.

A NEW HAND AT THE BELLOWS!—The subscriber has taken the old Davis shop in the East Ward, Ebensburg, and is now prepared to do BLACKSMITHING in all its branches, such as horse shoeing, wagon and carriage work, and in fact all other work in his line. An experience of twenty years as a horse shoer and many years in the other details of his trade, enables him to guarantee perfect satisfaction in all cases, and to cash customers he has determined to make a great reduction from prices heretofore prevailing in this vicinity. All I ask is a fair trial, and my work will commend itself. S. J. WEAKLAND.
Ebensburg, April 30, 1868.-3t.

EXCELLENT WHITEWASH.—[A correspondent sends us the following, with the remark that she has found it to be excellent and the best ever tried. She wishes the readers of the Telegrah to have the benefit of it.]

As the house cleaning time will soon be here, it may not be amiss to say a few words in regard to whitewashing. There are many recipes published, but we believe the following to be the best that can be used:—White chalk is the best substitute for lime as a wash. A very fine and brilliant whitewash preparation of chalk is called "Paris White." This we buy at the paint stores for three cents a pound, retail. For each sixteen pounds of Paris White we procure half a pound of white transparent glue, costing twenty-five cents (fifty cents a pound). The sixteen pounds of Paris White is about as much as a person will use in a day. It is prepared as follows:—The glue is covered with cold water at night and in the morning is carefully heated, without scorching, until dissolved. The Paris White is stirred in with hot water enough to give it the proper milky consistency for applying to the walls, and the dissolved glue is then added and thoroughly mixed. It is then applied with a bush like the common lime whitewash. Except on dark and smoky walls and ceilings a single coat is sufficient. It is nearly equal in brilliancy to "zinc white," a far more expensive article.—Germantown Telegraph.

A VERY heavy fog once visited the State of Massachusetts, which probably somewhat surpassed the famous fogs of London. A young man was sent out into a field to nail on a few courses of shingles upon a barn, the roof of which was nearly completed. At dinner time, continues the farmer, who is responsible for the story, the fellow came up, and says he: "That's an alarming long barn of yours."

"Not very long," says I.

"Well," says he, "I've been to work all this forenoon, and haven't got one course laid yet."

"If that's the case," says I, "you're a very lazy fellow."

So, after dinner, I went out to see what he had been about, and I'll be thundered if he had not shingled more than a hundred feet right out into the fog.

IN a Western village a charming, well-preserved widow had been courted and won by a physician. She has children: among them a crippled boy, who had been petted, and, if not spoiled, certainly allowed very great "freedom in debate." The wedding day was approaching, and it was time the children should know they were to have a new father. Calling the crippled boy, she said: "George, I am going to do something before long that I would like to talk about with you."

"Well, ma, what is it?"

"I am intending to marry Dr. Jones in a few days, and—in a few days, and—"

"Bully for you, ma! Does Dr. Jones know it?"

Ma caught her breath, but failed to articulate a reponse.

—Over 50 bodies of cholera victims, buried at Arsenal Island by the authorities of St. Louis last summer, were washed from their resting place by a rise of the Mississippi, on Saturday. Twenty-four of the corpses were recovered from the stream, and those on the Island are to be removed to a safe burial place.

—A fellow named Dr. Bloom residing in Scranton recently sold all the furniture in his house to different persons in the city, and then left the place, abandoning his wife to whom he had been married about a year and from whom he had borrowed what little money she possessed on her marriage.
